

HOCKEY FRIENDS:

In the Summer of 2006, I had the opportunity to travel with my two sons to a hockey tournament in Budapest, Hungary. The tournament committee provided the teams competing in the tournament with the opportunity to skate with a professional ice skating (power skating) coach. Nina Nassen, of Sweden donned her skates and took to the ice to work with our boys, providing them with technique and instruction on how to become a better skater. At first, our boys were joking and comical about the situation, they thought how can this 5 foot 2 inch woman have an impact on their ability to play this game that they so often thought of as tough and physical? At the end of the 90 minute session, she had them wanting more and humbled to discover that they were still babes when it comes to the game! Throughout the tournament we learned that Nina's resume included working with many Scandanavian National teams, school teams and NHL'ers alike and we spoke of the many benefits of her coming to the U.S. It is with that motivation that I have decided to work with Nina on bringing a skating camp to Western Massachusetts the week of August 2nd - 6th.
